TEN QUICK TIPS OF SHOWING VIDEOS DURING CIT TRAININGS AND PRESENTATIONS

1. Do not depend on having an internet connection at the training location. Download the video onto your computer or flash-drive and hyperlink into the presentation.
2. Macs and PC don't always like each other. Open and test your video before the presentation. Computers have different software programs.
3. Check the sound and clarity.....speakers and connections.
4. Videos should not be a substitute teacher, but complement your presentation.
5. Explain the purpose of a video to reinforce presentation objectives.
6. Notify audience about videos that show trauma and violence. Gracefully allow them to remove themselves from the room. Attempt to schedule these videos before/after breaks or lunch.
7. HUMOR can grab an audience's attention and increase class interaction.
8. Know your audience.....what is funny and humorous to law enforcement might not be appreciated by others.
9. When presenting topics on law enforcement trauma (suicide, suicide by cop, job/family stressors) a mental health or peer support specialist should be in the room.
10. Officers / Participants are HUMAN, expect HUMAN responses and emotional reactions during training.

Neurotransmitters and Their Functions (3:47)

Neurotransmitters are chemical messengers that allow signals to cross synapses to transmit information from a nerve cell or neuron to a target cell. Neurotransmitters coordinate behavior by stimulating an action or inhibiting an impulse. The identification and function of neurotransmitters remains an open field of scientific study. However, we do now know that a single neuron can produce several different neurotransmitters.

Tardive Dyskinesia (2:31)

This video was taken at the doctor's office. When I rock like this I call this the monkey dance. On "bad head days" I look like Alan Wilson and it is very painful. I take carbadopa-levo 25/250 and 1 mg of adavan x 3 a day and it seems to work. I have seizures, gliosis, loss of memory and all the other symptoms.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Qf3I6t8fuA8>

Tardive Dyskinesia (5:40)

Tardive dyskinesia is a difficult-to-treat and often incurable form of dyskinesia, a disorder resulting in involuntary, repetitive body movements. In this form of dyskinesia, the involuntary movements are tardive, meaning they have a slow or belated onset. This neurological disorder, by definition, most frequently occurs as the result of long-term (usually at least 3 months duration) or high-dose use of antipsychotic drugs.

EMPATHY

Empathy Can Change the World (2:23)

This video was dreamed up, scripted, and acted out by some of my amazing 8th grade students from Kalispell Middle School. The vision was to create a thought provoking short film that instills a challenge to the viewer to look at their own life, their own relationships, and their own sphere of influence, and see where a little empathy could help change the world around them.

What is Addiction: (4 min)

The "What is Addiction" 4-minute explainer video illustrates the crisis we face in the United States and explains the brain science of addiction. Using a hijacker metaphor, the video demonstrates how repeated substance use can overpower the brain's hardwiring, causing drug seeking behavior and changes in primary motivations. It also explains how the brain can be repaired over time and the importance of evidence based prevention and treatment.

The Bridge (2006 Controversial Documentary) (1:34:18)

The Bridge is a 2006 Documentary that explored the effects of suicide on families that lost loved ones on the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco, California. The movie was mired with controversy regarding the directors permit. They lied to the issuing permit's office saying they were filming a nature documentary, but they secretly recorded months of footage including 23 actual suicides.

'Suicide By Cop' Leads Soldier On Chase Of His Life

In the fall of 2010, NPR and ProPublica published an investigation about five soldiers who suffered traumatic brain injuries from the same explosion in Iraq. The report also explored the cognitive and emotional problems they've been having ever since. Twelve days later, one of the soldiers, Brock Savelkoul, piled an armload of guns and semi-automatic weapons into his pickup and led police on a high-speed chase across North Dakota.
